HAMMONDS DENY THEY MADE 'MOON'

Brothers Assert Shack at 21st and Park Was Rented by Stranger Named William Hauser

RAID DISCLOSED THE NEWS OF "DISTILLERY," THEY TESTIFY

Neither Could Tell Where Hauser Came from or Where He Disappeared to

Charles J. and William Hammond, brothers, charged with the manufacture of moonshine and possession of moonshine whiskey, mash, stills and other contrivances, on trial Monday morning before Judge C. A. Fowler of Fond du Lac, holding court in place of Judge Higbee, denied that they made moonshine in the shack owned by them at Twenty-first street and Park avenue, or that they even knew that moonshine was made in the place.

Their defense was that they rented the place to a William Hauser. They didn't know who he was, or where he came from or where he went to when he left La Crosse. Charles Hammond asserted that he had made an effort to locate Hauser, through coal dealers and transfer men but failed to get any information as to where he had gone.

Jury Views Shack

At noon the jury was taken to view the shack where the moonshine was made. The trial was resumed in the afternoon.

The shack was raided last January by state deputy prohibition commissioners. They seized more than 60 gallons of moonshine, several stills oil stoves, glass demijohns presumably for shipping the product in and containers in which to put the demijohns. A quantity of mash was destroyed.

Charles Hammond testified that he and his brother William bought the lot from an agent of N. P. Dodge, Jr. of Omaha on a land contract. They did not have much money to spend on the place at the time so they put up a small one-room affair. In October they rented the place to a William Hauser for $5 a month, Hammond said that he did not know what Hauser wanted the place for. —he said he went out of the place several times but Hauser was not in and he did not enter the place. The first he knew about moonshine being made there, he testified, was when the shack was raided and that he went to the shack several days later and saw the mash scattered around the floor.

Says Hauser borrowed Car

He also testified that Hauser borrowed his small touring car on one occasion. This was corroborated by his brother William, and his wife.

Andrew H. Klein and Patrick McCauley, assessors, testified that they went to the shack one but no one an-

FRENCH PREMIER LOOKING FOR ALLIED SUPPORT IN ACTION AGAINST GERMANY

PARIS.—(By the Associated Press).—The French parliament will reconvene Tuesday in an atmosphere of anxiety, due chiefly to the prospective use of military force to bring pressure on Germany, but augmented by the Russo-German treaty and other complications growing out of the Genoa conference.

Expiration of the time given Germany to accept the reparation commission's condition is only one week off but there will be no immediate action, since Premier Poincare, although determined to go ahead alone if necessary, will take time to induce the allies to join him if he can.

The cabinet is regarded by the best posted members in parliament as sure of a big majority in approval of its policy of energetic action against Germany. Some apprehension is felt lest this situation make still more acute the difference which has arisen in the entente.

RUSSIA NOT LOOKING FOR MATERIAL HELP FROM ALLIES, CLAIM

Decrees Issued by Government Designed to Aid in Reconstruction of Russia

REMOVE STATE MONOPOLY ON FARM MACHINERY AND SEEDS

Private Property Legalized in Laws Passed by Central Body

MOSCOW. — By The Associated Press.—New decrees which government leaders say are designed to encourage the independent capitalistic reconstruction of Russia on Russia's terms have been promulgated coincidentally with the close of the Genoa conference.

The council of commisars has announced removal of the state monopoly on trade in agricultural implements and seeds, permitting private persons to buy abroad through the commissariat of foreign trade.

Meanwhile the central executive committee which is now in session, passing bills legalizing private property to a certain degree, has also decided to permit inheritance by husbands or wives and direct descendants of a maximum of 5,000 gold rubles.

The council also is debating a project permitting ground leases up to fifty-nine years instead of the thirty-six year maximum originally intended.

The municipality of Petrograd has decided to hand over to the owners for life possession all the smaller houses, the maximum being seven apartments. Similar returns of houses are being made in some of the provinces and the Ukraine is turning back flour mills of small capacity to the owners.

The newspapers echo the government view, reiterated throughout the progress of the Genoa conference, that Russia did not expect any material aid from the allied governments.

STATE BOARD TO HEAR CASES HERE DURING TWO DAYS

The Industrial Commission of Wisconsin will hold hearings in La Crosse May 31 and June 1 in the following cases under the workmen's compensation act:

H. J. Luedtke vs. Smith Manufacturing Co.; Peter F. Riley vs. Segelke-Kohlhaus Mfg. Co.; August Weibel vs. Onalaska Pickle Works; W. E. Butt vs. State Highway Commission; Warren L. Roettiger vs. State of Wisconsin; Mrs. Thos. Bramwell vs. La Crosse Telephone Co.; John C. Johnson vs. Stamping & Tool company; Minnie Schroeder vs. County of La Crosse.

BICYCLISTS WARNED BY POLICE OF LAW REGARDING LIGHTS

The local police department Monday issued a warning to bicycle riders of the ordinance relating to maintenance of lights and warning devices on bicycles.

Following passage of a resolution by the council at the last regular meeting instructing the chief of police to strictly enforce the regulation, bicycle riders will be subject to fines in police court for violation, police officials said.

RAIL CHIEFS MEET TO DISCUSS HARDING PLEA FOR RATE CUT

Executives in Conference With Rail Board Members Following White House Meeting

DISPUTE HARDING CLAIM CUT IS NEEDED TO REVIVE INDUSTRY

Carriers Declare High Rates are Not Responsible for Inactivity

WASHINGTON.—Several railroad executives, representing the group of nineteen which participated in the white house dinner conference Saturday night, at which President Harding asked voluntary action by the railroad executives in certain railroad reductions, Monday held a two-hour session with the members of the interstate commerce commission.

Although the formal announcement of the conference was made by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, one of the conferees merely said the meeting was "for the purpose of discussing the rate situation." the session generally was regarded as the first step by the railroads toward possible compliance with the president's request and toward carrying out the agreement made at the white house conference, for the appointment of a committee which is to study the situation and inform the President how far it is possible for the carriers to go in the direction of radical rate reductions without unduly sacrificing the interests of the stockholders.

It transpired Sunday that the discussion following the dinner was one of the warmest that has taken place in the White House in years. Some of the rail executives are reported to have taken sharp issue with the contention of the President that the lowering of freight rates, particularly on coal steel and iron, lumber, and other basic commodities, is all that is needed to revive industry.

President's Opinion Disputed

Statistics were quoted to prove that industrial inactivity is not attributable to high transportation charges and that the reduction rates already effected had not increased the volume of business in the commodities concerned. The hard times from which the country has been suffering are the result of the economic dislocation brought by the war it was contended, and until the readjustment has progressed further no marked industrial revival can be expected even if freight rates were lowered to prewar levels.

On the question of the radical rate reductions at which the President is aiming the carriers only brought up the matter of wages. They contend that as a business proposition any general decrease of rates is not justified so long as the cost of operation remains at its present abnormal level.

Say War Wage Cost Keeps Up

In the cost of operation wages constitute the big item. It was pointed out that the railroads' payroll today is $5,000,000,000 greater than in 1916. How they can obtain the revenue to meet the high cost of operation inherited from the war time regime and retain a fair profit to the stockholders if rates are cut far below the war time level the carriers professed themselves unable to say.

ULSTER PREMIER AROUSED OVER DEATH OF SOLON

Craig Calls Special Meeting of Cabinet and Belfast Authorities to Discuss Action

MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT SHOT DOWN WHILE ON WAY TO WORK

Murder Calls for "Just Retribution," Declares Premier in Manifesto

LONDON.—By the Associated Press. — The agreement reached in Dublin Saturday by leaders of political factions is regarded by most of the editorial writers of Monday's London newspapers as the surrender of Michael Collins to Eamon De Valera. They do not see how it will enable the Irish people to express their will respecting the Anglo-Irish treaty. Some also find a connection between the peace pact and the outbreak of violence in the north.

DUBLIN.—The killing of W. J. Twaddell, a member of the Ulster parliament, who was shot while on his way to business, caused the issuance of a manifesto by Sir James Craig, the premier announcing a special meeting of the cabinet and the legal authorities. The premier declared "just retribution" was called for.

The premier in his manifesto said: "My detestation of this horrible crime fills me with such indignation that I have summoned a special meeting of the cabinet and all the authorities dealing with law and order. Such an event as this murder demands just retribution."

Mr. Twaddell, passing through Garfield street, was nearing his place of business on North street when two men approached and fired seven shots at him from close range, all the bullets taking effect.

The victim collapsed immediately and the assassins decamped before the horrified spectators realized what had happened.

Murdered For Loyalty

The manifesto says Mr. Twaddell was murdered for his loyalty to the empire and his devotion to the cause of Ulster. His colleagues, it was declared, will carry on and face the future, no matter what the future might hold for them.

"Justice and retribution rest with the higher authorities," the manifesto adds. Let the people rally around the established government which will see that proper measures are taken without plunging our province or our capital into a welter of crime and bloodshed."

As a tribute to Mr. Twaddell's memory the premier said the people of Belfast and the six counties would observe the day with special reverence.

"I will deal with the whole matter when the parliament meets tomorrow. I feel satisfied that the public realizes the plans which the government has made are sufficiently comprehensive to meet any eventuality that may arise."

The manifasto concludes by announcing that the parliament will adjourn Tuesday after passing a vote of condolence with Mrs. Twaddell and the relatives of the murdered member.

Fourteen Die Over Week-End

The most disquieting feature of Sunday's disorders in Belfast was the shifting of the center of trouble to Ballymacarret, the east end section, where there is a large artisan population, and a small compact Sinn Fein community living in an area called the Short Strand.

Two men were killed in violent rioting there and Thomas McShane, who was wounded Saturday, died, bringing the total of deaths over the week-end to fourteen.

During Sunday night's shooting gunmen opened fire on the city electric station, but the return fire from police and troops caused the assailants to withdraw.

The flying column responsible for Saturday's raids in counties Antrim and Down, vanished as quickly as it came, but a renewal of its operations is anticipated.

Call Meeting in London

LONDON. — By the Associated Press—The British government has invited the Irish signatories to the Anglo-Irish treaty to come to London and discuss with the British signatories the agreement signed Saturday between representatives of the provisional government and the followers of Eamon De Valera, it was announced in the house of commons Monday afternoon by Winston Churchill, secretary for the colonies.

This agreement, he thought raised serious issues affecting the character

AMERICAN PERSUADES REBELS TO SURRENDER CAPTURED FORTRESS

Revolutionary Movement Breaks Out in Managua, Nicaragua, Monday

RESIGNATION OF PRESENT ADMINISTRATION DEMANDED

Conservatives Opposed to Government Lead the Outbreak

MANAQUA, Nicaragua, May 21. — By The Associated Press.—Revolutionary movement broke out here today against President Diego Manuel Chamborro, a band of rebels seizing Fortress Loma, commanding this city. Upon representations from the American Minister John E. Ramer however, the revolutionists later agreed to turn over the fort to the commander of the American marines at ten o'clock Monday night, to be given back to the government.

The capture of Fortress Loma was effected at noon under command of General Cruz, who took the position by strategy in the absence of the commander. Other leaders of the revolutionary movement are Adan Canton and Salvador Castrillo. All are prominent conservatives but are of the faction opposed to the present government.

Seek Change of Government

As soon as news of the capture of the fortress was received the American minister sent a letter to the commander of the rebellious troops. The reply stated that the rebels were friendly to the Americans and that their purpose was to cause the resignation of the president and a change of the present cabinet.

The American minister answered, stating that if the fort fired upon Campo de Marte, where the American marines are stationed, or upon the city, the fire would be returned by the marines. He also proposed that General Cruz send three representatives to the American legation to meet three representatives of the government for a joint conference.

Marines on Way

Mr. Ramer then communicated by wireless with Rear Admiral Cole of the United States navy, who replied that he was within 300 miles and would arrive at Corinto Tuesday with 400 marines.

The government was busy today recruiting troops and expected that 1,000 men would arrive by tonight from Granada.

There was rifle and machine gun firing between the government troops and those holding the fortress during the afternoon, several soldiers being wounded.

Later at the conference, it was agreed that General Cruz would surrender the fortress at 10 o'clock Monday night to the officer of the American marines, to be turned back to the government. It also was agreed that the civilians implicated in the revolution would be pardoned and that the military participants should be imprisoned for thirty days. There was high tension and fear among the people but everything was quiet.

LOCATE ONE SON OF HIRSCH COHEN POLICE GET WIRE

A message from the chief of police at Bloomington, Ill., received here Monday morning stated that Jacob Levy, 1254 Troy street, Chicago, is a son of the late Hirsch Cohen (Casper Levy) who died suddenly here. Chief Webber has written Chicago in an effort to locate the six remaining children who are heirs to an estate valued at about $4000.

WOMAN DIES OF BURNS

MANITOWOC, Wis.—Mrs. Mathew Shinek, 76, of Kellnersville, Wis. was burned to death Monday at the home of relatives on a farm near Branch, Wis. Relatives of the aged woman returned from chores to find her in flames, the burns from which death followed. It was thought she had tried to start a fire in the kitchen stove with kerosene and had got too near the flames.

RADIO TELLS OF ROBBERY

The Tribune and Leader-Press received its first news dispatch by radio at 5 p. m. Sunday, when A. B. Sanial received from E. N. Fridgen at Trempealeau the following dispatch.

"Press to Tribune:

"About midnight Saturday night, robbers broke into the Trempealeau Auto company, Trempealeau, taking twelve tires. They cut a half moon hole in the office glass door and unlatched the Yale lock. No identifications of the robbers were made."

BRITISH AND FRENCH BOATS COLLIDE; FORMER SINKS IN TWENTY MINUTES

ARCHBISHOP MESSMER BARS LOW NECKS AND KNICKERS FROM CHURCH

Milwaukee.—Condemnation of lowneck dresses and "hiking suits" with knickers for women, urging pastors to refuse holy communion and absolution in the confessional to the wearers, was expressed in a pastoral letter of Archbishop S. G. Messmer, which was read in all of the 250 Catholic churches of Milwaukee archdiocese on Sunday.

"Let the pastors publish as a rule for their parish that no womap or girl with a low cut dress reaching below the collarbone or with naked arms will be allowed to approach holy communion. Let priests refuse absolution of any Catholic girl going out in so-called "hiking suits," a most outrageous, downright immodest and positively sinful fashion which "threatens to become somewhat general," the letter read in part.

BURCH JURY UNABLE TO REACH VERDICT DISMISSED BY JUDGE

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—The jury in the trial of A. C. Burch for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy was discharged by Judge Reeve Monday after reporting it was impossible to agree upon a verdict.

Jurors said the final ballot was 7 to 5 for acquittal. This division was unchanged since Friday when the first ballot of six to six was changed by one more juror swinging to favor acquittal. The four women on the jury voted for acquittal. The case was placed on the calendar for next Saturday to be set for a third trial.

STODDARD MEN GO OVER EMBANKMENT IN AN AUTOMOBILE

R. C. Currie, Stoddard merchant, and George Kraus narrawly escaped death or serious injury when the machine owned and driven by the former slid over a five foot embankment when the two were enroute to Stoddard from La Crosse last Saturday night about 11:30.

Currie explained that in meeting another car he was not given sufficient room to pass. The car sliding over the bank turned over twice, he said. Both occupants escaped with minor injuries.

SALESMAN IS FINED $12.50 FOR PARKING LEFT SIDE OF STREET

E. L. Gosdell, traveling salesman, was fined $12.50 in police court Monday morning on a charge of parking his car on the left side of the street. Gosdell was alleged to have refused to obey the officer immediately when ordered to remove his car. The usual fine for the offense is $3.50. Charles Schlutter was fined $12.50 on a charge of speeding while Paul Sievers paid $45.0 on a charge of intoxication.

GUBERNATORIAL RACE IN OREGON IS CLOSE

PORTLAND, Ore.—On the basis of complete returns from 16 counties and incomplete returns from 20 counties, Charles Hall Monday led Ben W. Olcott, governor, by 208 votes in the race for the republican nomination for governor. Missing precincts yet to report, however, made the issue in doubt and it was believed that it might require the official count definitely to determine the winner.

The vote so far compiled stood: Hall, 41,892; Olcott, 41,684.

EVANSTON PASTOR DEFENDS FLAPPER

CHICAGO, Ill.—The modern day flapper was defended by the Rev. Almer Pennewell, pastor of the Covenant church at Evanston, Sunday in a sermon in which he approved short skirts, bobbed hair and knickers.

"Flapperism is not a disease but a diversion," he said. "Bobbed hair, short skirts and knickers are not signs of sin, but a declaration of independence. The girls are a jolly lot and they will give us the finest generation of women the world has ever known.

VESSEL WAS LYING TO IN FOG WHEN HIT

British Ship Sinks Twenty Minutes After Side is Crushed in by Impact of the Seine

TWO AMERICAN WOMEN ARE LISTED AMONG MISSING

Missionaries Were Returning to Posts in India After Furloughs at Home

BREST.—(By the Associated Press.)—Ninety-eight persons are missing and 242 were saved of those who were on board the British steamship Egypt when it was sunk off the Island of Ushant Saturday night by a collision with the French steamer Seine, according to the latest official figures.

Among those missing are two American women, Mrs. M. L. Sibley and Miss V. M. Boyer, whose home addresses are unknown here. It is possible that some of the missing may have been picked up by the steamship Cap Iracon in addition to those brought here by the Seine. The Cap Iracon was nine miles from the scene and replied to the distress signals with the assurance that she was speeding to the spot.

According to the Egypt's purser, the ship floated only about twenty minutes after her plates were crushed in by the Seine. The Egypt, he declares, was not moving at the time of the accident, lying to on account of the dense fog and sounding her siren continuously.

Suddenly there came the warning shriek of the siren on the Seine, and the latter loomed up out of the fog and darkness and struck the Egypt amidships. With the crash there came a terrible confusion on the stricken vessel. Four or five boats were all that could be lowered, because of the list of the vessel and many persons jumped overboard fearing to be drawn down with the Egypt. There was no one on board when the vessel took her final plunge, he believed.

The purser estimated that fifteen passengers, thirty white officers and fifty Lascars of the crew were missing.

Captain Tells of Disaster

Captain Le Barzic of the Seine, in describing the disaster said:

"I was at my post on the upper bridge Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, 15 miles from Armen light. The sea was calm, with a slight swell. The fog was very dense. I was listening for fog horns and proceeding at the slow speed of five knots.

"In less than it takes to tell a great steamer emerged from the fog. It struck my ship and tore away the forward works and moved on at great speed. I immediately ordered the engines reversed.

"I saw nothing further. Then I began to hear cries of horror that told me of a catastrophe. I went in search of the stricken vessel in the fog and darkness. I found her in twenty minutes.

Ready to Turn Over

"She lay on her port side, ready to turn over. Water was pouring into a long, deep tear in her side plates. Cries and wails of despair were to be heard coming from the steamer. Passengers were seen running about on the decks, as the steamer was about to go under.

"I saw a man throw himself into the sea with two little children in his arms. The shipwrecked people in the sea clung to floating debris. I had particularly perilous work, for we were on the main path of vessels going from the open sea to the English channel. I stayed at the scene of the wreck until twenty minutes after 11 o'clock Saturday night."

Operator Stays on Job

Chief Wireless Operator Harwick went down with the ship, sending out calls for help until the boat went under. His steadfastness spread the news of the disaster among the vessels in that vicinity, several of which reached the scene within a short time but too late, so far as known, to find anyone living. The small

BLAINE ATTORNEY ASKS RE-OPENING OF PARDON CASE

Olbrich Argument Declares Supreme Court Left Unanswered Fundamental Question

LOOK FOR DECISION ON PLEA FOR RECONSIDERATION JUNE 8

Governor Asks Re-argument of Entire Action

MADISON, Wis.—The fundamental question whether Peter Christ, Rhinelander, Wis., strike leader, was convicted of civil or of criminal contempt was left unanswered by the Wisconsin Supreme court when in April it held void the order of Gov. J. J. Blaine removing Hans Rodd, sheriff of Oneida county, from office for failing to obey his pardon warrant freeing Christ, M. B. Olbrich, executive counsel, argued in a brief submitted to the court Monday asking that the case be reopened.

Request was made that the court call for reargument of the entire action in order that it may pass again upon issues raised by the governor involving the extent of his pardoning power, and his authority summarily to remove peace officers for failure to carry out executive orders. The decision of the court is expected June 6.

No Ruling on Nature of Case

Mr. Albrich contends in his brief that the Supreme court, when it decided te Rodd case, "placed no construction of its own upon the true nature of the proceedings which resulted in Christ's imprisonment," and that as a result "a case involving questions of great delicacy which had aroused great popular interest has been disposed of without adequate discussion on either side; without citations of district authority or precedent by the court and without such detailed or convincing elucidation of its views as would seem necessary to sustain a decision of such cardinal importance as a matter of first impression."

"In substance and effect," Mr. Olbrich said, "the court adopted the argument of counsel for the sheriff that the lower court had ruled the proceedings to be civil in character and that such ruling had not been directly challenged or reversed and hence was binding upon the governor and upon the court.

Asks Re-Opening of Case

"It is earnestly believed that the position of the court is untenable and that the full measure of its duty can only be discharged," the governor's counsel argued, "by taking a decision in the exercise of its own original, independent judgment as to whether the proceedings instituted and concluded did in fact look primarily to the punishment of Peter Christ or primarily in the relief of the Rhinelander paper company.

"If the proceedings were in fact carried on for the vindication of a private right, a purported pardon is unavailing," Mr. Olbrich stated. "If they were instituted for criminal punishment, the pardon is valid whether the sentence was so or not. Unless this court now says, without regard to prior construction, that these proceedings were civil in fact from indeption in terminus, the executive pardon entitled the prisoner of his discharge.

"There is before the court nothing equivalent to a judicial determination that these proceedings were civil in character. The theory, reason or mental attitude that led it to entry of the order in question is of no force or consequence either upon direct or upon collateral attack. The court's declaration as to the effect of its order therefore is relevant only so far as persuasive and binding only if correct.

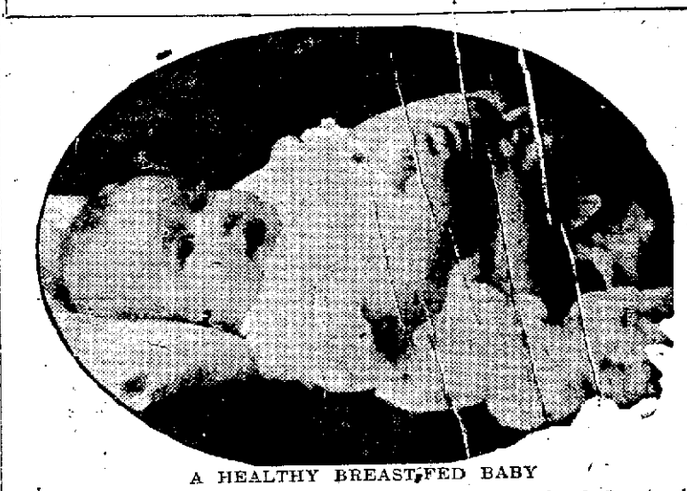

"The order here is consistent with the theory of punishment, not remedy. It can more logically be interpreted as a criminal than as a civil order.

"But were it otherwise, no action of the court could effectively transform such proceedings from criminal to civil nature or vice versa. The identity of suc a proceeding remains unchanged watever the court may say about it or seek do under its cover. Judicial error cannot alter or enlarge judicial power.

"The order here embodies a sentence appropriate to criminal contempt. That sentence though excessive and henbe erroneous is operative and binding until reversed or relieved from by pardon not because it is found in a purported civil order but because it is merely erroneous criminal order. Pardon involves no element of collateral attack upon the result and cannot be defeated by the reason fo the sentence."

YOUR BABY IN HOT WEATHER

BREAST MILK IS BEST OF ALL IN SUMMER TIME

A HEALTHY BREAST-FED BABY

BY MRS. MAX WEST
Late of the United States Children's Bureau

The easiest baby to take care of and bring through the hot weather safely is the one who is nursed at his mother's breast.

Even a few drops of mother's milk may be the means of warding off serious and possibly fatal illness. This is particularly true of the young baby.

Up to three months of age, at least, breast milk is invaluable and even if the mother's supply is not quite sufficient for the baby, she should give him the benefit of every drop there is, especially through the hot days of summer.

The baby should be allowed to nurse both breasts, if the supply is scanty. This not only helps the baby, but is the best known way for producing more breast milk. It has been found that more important even than the diet for the nursing mother is the the regular stimulation of the breasts by the nursing of the baby, or by a method of hand manipulation by means of which the breasts are emptied, when necessary, by the mother herself.

Tiny babies, deprived of mother's milk, often have a hard time to cling to the frail thread of life in summer, and it is no unusual sight to see a devoted nurse going from one hospital to another, the city over, trying to find some nursing mother who can spare a few drops of the precious fluid which alone will avail to carry some infant past such a crisis.

But even breast-fed babies may suffer serious harm in summer if the rules of good feeding are not fully observed. If the mother makes a practice of offering the breast every time the baby cries, or permits the child to nurse whenever he wakes at night, it will be very easy to set up a bad case of indigestion.

Most babies thrive well if fed only once in four hours, and three hours is the shortest time that should elapse between feedings. After the early months, the baby should not require to be nursed later than the hour at which the mother retires, and many healthy babies early learn to sleep all night without feeding.

In hot weather, overfeeding is far more serious than at any other time, for a slight digestive upset easily becomes an alarming illness during the days of excessive heat.

HAY FEVER REMEDY PROVING ONLY A ONE-SEASON CURE

Permanent Relief for Summer Sufferers Not Yet in Sight

MADISON, Wis.—"Kachoo! kachoo! Oh-hh-hhhh!"

Hard luck, all ye stricken with hay fever for although a one-season cure has been perfected and is proving successful, a permanent relief is as yet undiscovered.

The University of Wisconsin clinic is now treating some sixty cases a week under the direction of Dr. G. H. Robbins. These patients are those who would nominally be afflicted next August.

According to the authorities there are two types of hay feverites—the June species and the August 15th variety. The spring sufferers blame it on the blossoming of the otherwise harmless dandelion and the June rose. The fall victims say it is the golden rod and the fall weeds and grasses.

Every hayfeverife is particularly susceptible to pollen from certain grains, grasses or flowers. The clinic determines exactly what pollen it is that is so aggravating to each patient by making some ten or fifteen tests. When a definite reaction is gained the patient is then innoculated against that particular pollen. In order to be effective the treatments are given weekly for three months previous to the "season."

CAMPAIGN FOR STATE PARKS APPROVED BY PRESIDENT HARDING

WASHINGTON.—Endorsement of the state park movement is given by President Harding, in a letter to John Barton Payne, as chairman of the conference committee of the second national conference on state parks, to be read at the opening session of the conference Monday at Bear Mountain Inn, Palisades interstate park, New York.

"The desirability from many points of view, of establishing state parks is so obvious that there hardly need be argument on the subject," the president wrote. "Every year of delay in creating such resorts is certain to increase the expense and difficulty of securing the most desirable kind of property; therefore it is particularly in the public interest to have the movement urged as widely and persistently as possible."

YOUTH DROWNS IN ATTEMPT TO SWIM LAKE ON A WAGER

MADISON, Wis.—Dudley Hayner of Sun Prairie, Wis., 16 years old, was drowned in Lake Breazee, two miles from here, and a companion, Charles Liebinger, 21 nearly met the same fate, Sunday afternoon, when the two attempted to swim the lake on a wager. Hayner was seized with cramps some distance from shore. Liebinger tried to rescue him, but was himself taken with cramps. Spectators rescued the one boy, but could not locate the other. His body has not been recovered.

MOTHER!

Clean Baby's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry Mother! If baby has colic, diarrhoea, food souring, feverish breath, coated tongue; is restless and can't sleep because of clogged bowels, give a half-teaspoonful of California Fig Syrup. It moves the wind and gas and all the souring food, bile and poison right out of the tender little bowels without cramping or overacting and baby usually gets peaceful relief. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs.

PRAYER FOR WISDOM

So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.—Psalms, 90: 12.

To the Manner Born

THE first woman to apply for admission to a seat in the British house of lords has received a turn-down. The lords, always conservative, evidently don't give a hang for the enfranchisement of women in Great Britain. Not so in the house of commons, where there are already two women members—or is it three? The difference, one suspects, is that in the house the members are subject to the votes of the people. Women are voters, and there are more women than men in Great Britain. The house of commons is solicitous of the good opinion of the women of the country. But the lords are different. They take their seats by birth or the favor of the king, and they cannot be deprived of them. Consequently it is no surprise that the house of lords is always holding back in every effort for reform or progress. Irresponsibles who have the best of it with things as they are can be depended upon to oppose changes of every sort. But the house of lords is losing its power. Already its original authority to defeat measures passed by the commons has been lost. Measures that have thrice passed the house become law whether the lords like it or not. Gradually the ordinary folks of Great Britain are trimming away the prerogatives of the lords. Eventually the house of lords will exist, if at all, as a sort of ornamental appendage to the government such as the king and his court are now. The lords do not welcome the prospect, but like all reactionaries they can only see what is behind, not what is in front. If they had eyes turned ahead they would have welcomed the aristocratic lady who sought a seat among them, instead of turning her a cold shoulder. By refusing her application for a seat they hasten their downfall, incurring the hostility of the women of Britain. In the long run the voters of Britain have their way.

HAMLIN GARLAND and Booth Tarkington win the prizes offered by the Pulitzer foundation for the best biography and novel of the year. One hears much more about "Erik Dorn", "The Beautiful and Damned", "Three Soldiers", than about "A Daughter of the Middle Border" or "Alice Adams." Why do the competent critics not award the prizes to the first-named? The answer is the condition attached to the prize: "For the American novel published during the year which shall best present the wholesome atmosphere of American life and the highest standard of American manners and manhood"; "For the best American biography teaching patriotic and unselfish service to the people, illustrated by an eminent example." Scott Fitzgerald and John Dos Passos write books that are widely read, but kept away from the children. They produce powerful cross-sections of a small, untypical, un-American segment of America, full of mental and spiritual abnormalities and excrescences. They dress by the sodden French and Russian realists. They make a great stir in the world, for a time, but shortly they will be forgotten. Dirt is not a permanent literary commodity. Not only the prizes awarded by contemporary critics, but the laurels of permanent place among the great masters of the language are reserved for authors who mix colors for their pictures of life with decency as well as observation and truth. Great literature is not pathological.

Suaviter in Modo

THERE being more ways than one to kill a cat the White House dinner given by President Harding to railroad executives may be as effective or perhaps more effective than the club with which we more usually attempt to argue a point with the roads. The president, and without doubt he speaks for the great bulk of his countrymen, wants railroad rates radically reduced. The interstate commerce commission has been devoting some attention to the problem, but it is more or less handicapped by the law's provision that such rates as it sets must be calculated to return good and poor railroads together an average fair return on their total valuation. There is no machinery in the law to cut rates to start business moving, on the expectation of increased business increasing returns. The commission must deal with present facts. The railroads, if they will, can reduce rates to any point they please, the commission consenting. The president's dinner sought to show that it would be both good business and patriotism to take a little less now and get more in the future. There is no doubt that certain roads more favorably located could immediately cut rates and still make reasonable profits. But the commission cannot compel them to because of the necessity of considering also the weaker roads, and of making uniform tariffs. President Harding had a fine idea, in seeking to obtain voluntary concessions, because the roads favorably situated, as a rule, are the main highways of trade movement, reducing of the rate resistance upon which would favorably influence business in vital centers and over wide areas. The railroad executives who were guests of the president objected, naturally, and made excuses blaming business stagnation on anything else but railroad rates. Still, they named a committee to look into the suggestion and report to the president. Perhaps the country will taste the dessert of that White House dinner, eventually.

UNCLE SAM is spending less of your money, which is good news, though under the sugar coating is the bitter pill that there's less money to spend. In the ten months ended May 1, the "ordinary expenses" of the national government were nearly a billion and a half dollars less than the corresponding period a year ago. Spending totaled $2,820,000,000. Biggest item of this was $772,000,000 which went for interest on the public debt. It emphasizes the great war burden we must carry for years. A "billion-dollar Congress" may be an impossibility in our lifetime, though there's still much room for economy.

Ashes

THE war set civilization back half a century. It will take fifty years to recover to "normal." This is the view of Dr. Robert Simpson Woodward, ex-president of Carnegie Institution. Woodward also sees a silver lining to the cloud. He thinks a super-science is rising from the ashes of the war, which unquestionably was an enormous stimulant to science. That is especially true among the people, one reason for the radio craze. It is the old story. Progress is painful, its price terrific.

The Old, Old Trail

BY CLARISSA MACKIE

From the highway, a trail wound through the wooded slopes to a clearing where a small house shone silver-gray in the sunshine. Inside the house it was cool and pleasant, with long shadows on the painted floors and the fragrant cleanliness of a well kept home.

Within the house it was still, save for the sounds that drifted in through the open windows—the rustling of leaves, the musical fall of cascades, and the song of the solitary vireo.

"You will leave all this—and go away?" questioned the man in an empty voice.

The woman nodded, spreading out the letter with graceful, sunbrowned fingers. "Just think of it, Van! A school teacher for years—and now the chance of a lifetime: all of Uncle Peter's money—travel—clothes—music—the world——Oh, Van—don't you understand?" The beating of wings against the bars—the cry for pleasure and freedom.

He picked up his hat and faced her, a young giant in stature, taking in her tender beauty with dazed blue eyes. He was only a forester, and she had taught school for the mountain children—they were to have been married in June—now—the temptation of the letter—the sudden inheritance had made her realize how impossible the life with him would be.

"You—are—going?" he asked slowly.

She nodded. "If I do not—I will receive only a paltry ten thousand dollars!"

He wanted to smile—a "paltry ten thousand dollars"—and up to now, ten dollars meant much to her! He did not smile—he pitied her and turned away. "Good-by—and good luck," he said, as he stepped outside, and without any other farewell he was gone—and she was so absorbed in her calculation that she did not know he had gone. She was listening for the sound of the stage driver's horn. At last she heard it winding down the slopes—a call to freedom!

The big touring car left the highway and seemed to plunge into the green tunnel of a wood road.

"Is this a road?" shrieked Hallie Russel from the tonneau.

Her husband bent above the steering wheel, turned his head a little. "Yesterday it was a mountain trail—today it is passable—tomorrow, it will be a section of the transcontinental highway!"

"Absurd!"

"My dear, you have said that before! Latimer, when you and Eleanor are married, beware of acting absurdly."

Latimer laughed fatly. "Good enough," he said in his meaningless way. "Hear that, Eleanor?" he turned to Mrs. Russel's companion, a fair dreamy-eyed girl, who watched the trail with wistful eyes.

She shrugged indifferently. "Yes, I heard—I was thinking. Finny, what a mistake it is for people to leave their own plesant woodland trails and venture into the highways—the quiet, green places are best after all."

"My dear girl," he gasped, "do you mean you would go back to your schoolhouse in the woods—lose yourself in the tall timber——"

"I would indeed!" she cried passionately; "I hate the fashionable world I have taken by storm—I have tried it out for five years—and my heart is not in it——" her voice faltered.

"Your heart—I believed—I flattered myself that I had your heart," grunted Latimer.

She flung out a jeweled hand. "My heart is here! I left it in these woods ——" she suddenly smiled. "James, please stop the car—I am going back—home—forgive me Finny—Hallie, but—I must go!" The car stopped, she gripped their hands warmly and vanished up the narrow trail. Unbelieving, they followed her, unable to guess her prank at the moment.

The old trail threaded the largest trees, plunged under an arbor of catbriar and woodbine and ended in a plantation of young firs. Beyond the firs was a clearing and a cottage shining in the sun. There were clean curtains at the windows and a kitten played on the doorstep. The woman flung her hands to her face. The tender, tremulous call of a wood thrush—then the sweet silence of high places fell upon her. On the other side of the clearing a forester watched her in fierce surprise tinged with fear. Had she returned to flaunt her riches in his face? Suddenly she saw him, saw the graying hair about his temples, the brooding shadows in his eyes. Behind her lounged her new friends of the world in various stages of surprise and curiosity.

"What's the matter?" demanded Hallie's thin, impatient voice.

Eleanor turned. "I came—back—here because my heart was here," she explained, and then she ran swiftly to him. "Van, oh, Van, I want to come home—I have wanted you all the years—I am tired of the world of little people!"

His hungry arms closed around her and her head rested on his patient heart. Above her sunny head the man's brave eyes met the cool incredulity of the world. "I think you had better go," he said gently. "She is tired—her feet are used to the old paths. Some day she will write to you. Now we have much to say to each other."

"She will lose most of the money," mutter Hallie as they went back to the car. "But that look in his eyes—in hers—it was worth something," she ended wistfully.

OUT OUR WAY BY WILLIAMS

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

POSSESSIONS

BY BERTON BRALEY

Said Billy McGee, "'Twixt me an' John D.
The difference ain't very much;
He's got, it is true—say a billion or two
Of stocks and investments and such;
In fact he can't count the tremendous amount,
While I—well, I haven't a dime;
But this much I know—though John's there with the dough
He can eat but one meal,
He can wear but one suit,
He can read but one book
At a time!"

Said Billy McGee, "I know that John D.
Can buy what he chooses to buy,
But I've figured out beyond any doubt
He can't enjoy life more than I;
For this is a truth that I learned in my youth—
A truth which I hold is sublime—
No matter how great is a fellow's estate
He can live in one house,
He can ride in one car
And wear only one hat
At a time!"

Said Billy McGee, "It's plain as can be
I'm just as well off as is John,
For though he can buy a much larger supply
Of things I've looked longingly on,
The fact still remains that for all of his gains
In every old country and clime,
Old John D. and me, which ever it be,
Can eat but one meal
And drink but one drink
And kiss but one girl
At a time!"

CHURCH MEETING SCORES HAYS FOR CLEAN FILM FAILURE

Asserted that Movie Situation Has Got Out of His Control

DES MOINES, Iowa.—By The Associated Press.—A plan for censorship of motion pictures at the studio where thty are produced, instead of at decentralized points in the various states, will be proposed by the motion picture subcommittee of the committee on Christian morals and reform at Tuesday's session of the annual meeting of the Presbyterians here it was learned Saturday.

Since his installation as movie director, Will H. Hays, former postmaster general, has failed signally in efforts to censor American cinemas and to improve the moral tone of film actors and actresses, according to statements made by the Rev. Gustave A. Briegleb, chairman of the subcommittee. Paying a tribute to the honesty of Hays' intentions, Briegleb asserted that the movie situation had gotten out of the dictators hands.

He cited failure by Mr. Hays to take any action to date in the alleged bigamy charges pending against Rodolph Valentino and Henry Walthall.

RIVER WORK STRATS BOATS ARE INSPECTED BY DUBUQUE MEN

River improvement operations have been started in this vicinity by the government dredge, which has begun deepening the channel of the river about a mile and a half above the Chicago, & North Western drawbridge at Winona. A shallow place has developed in that vicinity. The government steamer Ellen is with the dredge.

United States Steamboat Inspectors George Knapp and James Cary, both of Dubuque, were in this vicinity last week and inspected the steamer Red Wing and barge Manitou at Fountain City bay, and the steamer Moose in Winona. The former inspects the hulls and the latter the machinery.

Following the completion of the inspection, the Red Wing and barge Manitou left the bay for St. Paul, where they again will be engaged in the excursion business this year, expecting to start this work right away.

BRINGING UP FATHER

By GEORGE McMANUS

In The MOVIES

WES BARRY—RIVOLI

Featured by a prologue presented by a remarkable company of child actors, including clever singers and exceptional dancers, "School Days," Wesley Barry feature in which the Community Council is sharing the proceeds for its visiting housekeeper fund, played to big houses at the Rivoli Sunday.

The picture reveals all the pranks, the disappointments, and the glory of an untamable, irresponsible boy. Speck Brown played by the freckle-faced star. And Speck fairly revels in his portrayal. He is first seen among rural surroundings, and later he gets a taste of private tutoring that is accorded children of wealthy parents in big cities.

Speck is a little orphan. He has a stern guardian, and all his pleasures at the old swimmin' hole with his dog, Hippy, are stolen. He also has an eccentric old friend who has invented a clotes pin and calls it, "you-can't-lose-it-clothes-pin." With the perfection of this invention, backed by financial aid, the old fellow threatens to become wealthy. But before the invention materializes, Speck meets his wealthy uncle who persuades him to go East for an education.

Among the elite of the younger set, Speck finds that it is impossible to become chummy. Still, he plans to put over the clothes-pin idea, and when he finds that he has been duped by a pair of clever swindlers, the longing for his dog, the swimmin' hole his little country sweetheart grips him. So back to nature's playground goes Speck. And instead of traveling in style, he bears his way on a freight train.

TOM MEIGHAN—MAJESTIC

Known in the world of amusements as one of the leading playwrights, actor-managers and composers in the country George M. Cohan is author of "A Prince There Was," a brilliant stage success which has been picturized with Thomas Meighan as star and which will be the feature at the Majestic theater today. Mildred Harris a charming actress who scored in Cecil B. DeMille's great production, "Fool's Paradise," is Mr. Meigan's leading woman in this picture.

Miss Harris is seen in the role of a young girl, who after her father's ruin and suicide, seeks to make her way as a short story writer, but with poor success. Her plight is discovered by Charles Martin, played by Mr. Meighan, a wealthy but discontented young man, who falls in love with her and then poses as an assistant magazine editor in order that he may buy her stories. He buys a controlling interest in a metropolitan magazine so that he may publish the girl's story which the magazine had previously refused. His broker who is in love with the girl, jealously denounces Martin as the man who caused her father's ruin. The ensuing complications, however, are all cleared up in a happy finish which makes the picture most pleasing.

CASINO TODAY

Those who visit the Casino Theatre today will see two new stars shining brightly in the motion picture firmament. Edna Murphy and Johnnie Walker made their first appearance at the head of their own company in a lively picture produced by William Fox and called "Live Wires."

They did well and won the audiences at ever showing. Edna is a sweet-faced, blue-eyed, fair-haired girl with a very pleasing screen personality; and Johnnie is there with stuff that wins the hearts of both young and old. He gets the crooks in fine style, and Edna lends a hand without the least timidity.

STRAND TODAY

"Who Am I?" the latest National Picture is at the Strand today and provides an hour crammed with entertainment interest and suspense. Henry Kolker has staged a story that fairly bristles with action, and which leaves the final outcome a matter of conjecture until the last possible moment.

The tense atmosphere of a high-class gambling establishment furnishes the background, and an unusual point is the fact that this gilded temple of chance is owned and run by a young and innocent girl, instead of the blase, cynical gamester one would expect to see holding the reins.

RIVIERA TODAY

There is an awfully interesting bear in "Rip Van Winkle," the newest Hodkinson release at the Riviera today. On the screen he seems to be so tractable and so intelligent as to be almost human. But according to producer-Director Ward Lascelle, who made the picture in which by the way, Thomas Jefferson is starred—they did not have such a cinch shooting the scenes wherein Bruno is the featured player. And the man who suffered most of all was the animal's trainer!

The Winter Garden Follies put on a new show today—made for laughing purposes only.

U. S. ARMY OFFICER ON STAND IN TRIAL OF MINERS' LEADER

CHARLESTOWN W. Va.—By The Associated Press.—Brig.-Gen. H. P. Bandholtz, who represented President Harding in federal activities to restore order after several thousand miners and others had marched across two counties and given battle to defending forces on the border of Logan county last summer, was expected to be the principal defense witness Monday in the trial of William Blizzard in circuit court here under a charge of treason.

SIDNEY AINSWORTH DEAD

MADISON, Wis.—Sidney Ainsworth, 48, actor on the legitimate stage and in the moving pictures for the past twenty-five years, died here Sunday after an illness of several months. During his career Mr. Ainsworth played with many of the leading actors of the country.

A party of hunters recently shot wild goats on the rugged San Clemente island off the southern California coast.

Dandruff Soon Ruins The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

HAMLIN GARLAND AMONG WINNERS OF PULITZER PRIZES

Former La Crosse County Man, Awarded Honors for Best Biography

BOOTH TARKINGTON GETS PRIZE FOR BEST AMERICAN NOVEL

Frank M. O'Brien and Kirke Simpson Newspaper Winners

NEW YORK.—The Pulitzer prizes awarded by the advisory board of the Columbia School of Journalism for the most meritorious verse, novel, biography, history, newspaper story, editorial and general service to the public during the last year were announced Monday. They follow:

Prizes in journalism: For the most disinterested and meritorious public service rendered by any American newspaper during the year, a gold medal costing $500, to the New York World, for articles exposing the operations of the Ku Klux Klan, published during September and October, 1921. Jury: Prof. John W. Cunliffe, Prof. Roscoe C. E. Brown, Prof. Harry R. Seager.

Herald Editorial Rewarded

For the best editorial article written during the year, the test of excellence being clearness of style, moral purpose, sound reasoning and power to influence public opinion in the right direction, $500 to Frank M. O'Brien for an article entitled "The Unknown Soldier," published in the New York Herald on Nov. 11, 1921. Jury: Prof. Roscoe C. E. Brown, Prof. John W. Cunliffe, Associate Harold de W. Fuller.

For the best example of a reporter's work during the year, the test being strict accuracy, terseness, the accomplishment of some public good commanding public attention and respect, $1,000 to Kirke L. Simpson of the Washington staff of the Associated Press, for articles on the burial of "The Unknown Soldier," published on Nov. 9, 10, and 11, 1921. Jury: Prof. Charles Phillips Cooper, Associate Carl Dickey, Associate Allen Sinclair Will.

New York World Cartoonist

For the best cartoon published in any American newspaper during the year, the determining qualities being that the cartoon shall embody an idea made clearly apparent, shall show good drawing and striking pictorial effect and shall be helpful to some commendable cause of public importance $500 to R. Kirby of New York World for the cartoon "On the Road to Moscow," Aug 5, 1921. Jury: Prof. Ashley H. Thorndike, Associate Walter Prichard Eaton, Prof. Walter B. Pitkin.

The recommendations of the juries were in each case approved by the teaching staff. There was no competition for the prize of $1,000 available for the best history of the services rendered to the public by the American press during the preceding year.

Prizes in letters—For the American novel published during the year which shall best present the wholesome atmosphere of American life and the highest standard of American manners and manhood $1,000: "Alice Adams" by Booth Tarkington. Jury: Stuart P. Sherman, Samuel M. Crothers, Jefferson B. Fletcher.

Eugene O'Neill Aclaimed

For the original American play performed in New York, which shall best represent the educational value and power of the state in raising the standard of good morals, good taste and good manners, $1,000: "Anna Christie," by Eugene O'Neill. Jury: William Lyon Phelps, Hamlin Garland, Jesse Lynch Williams.

For the best book of the year upon the history of the United States, $2,000: "The Founding of New England," by James Truslow Adams. Jury: Worthington C. Ford, John B. McMaster, Charles Downer Hazen.

For the best American biography teaching patriotic and unselfish services to the people, illustrated by an eminent example, excluding, as too obvious, the names of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, $1,000: "A Daughter of the Middle Border," by Hamlin Garland. Jury: Maurice Francis Egan, William Roscoe Thayer, William Allen White.

Best Volume of Verse

For the best volume of verse published during the year by an American author, $1,000: "Collected Poems," by Edwin Arlington Robinson. Jury: Wilbur L. Cross, Richard Burton, Ferris Greenslet.

Edith Bell of Des Moines, Iowa, was awarded the annual scholarship of $1,500 to an art student of America "who shall be certified as the most promising and deserving by the National Academy of Design." Miss Bell has won several medals and prizes for her work, showing particular talent in design and composition of mural work.

New Variety of Cotton

A new variety of cotton, known as the Meade, has been introduced through the efforts of the United States Department of Agriculture, designed to take the place of the long staple Sea Island variety. The latter is threatened with extinction through the operations of the cotton boll weavil, but it is claimed that the new variety will take its place in every particular besides producing a larger crop than the Sea Island product.

Hot Spot in California

According to the records of the United States Weather Bureau, the Death Valley in California is the hottest spot in the United States and probably holds the record for the world. The valley is from two to eight miles wide and 100 miles long and about 337 feet below the sea level. The water running through the valley is often found at a temperature of 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

A hundred years ago there were in all Europe only 22 cities with more than 10,000 inhabitants.

Colt's-Foot a Substitute for Tobacco

A French physician, Dr. Ambial, told a medical association that all innocuous effects of tobacco smoking may be prevented by adding to the tobacco the stamens of the little plant known as "colt's-foot." Dr. Ambial declares that he can smoke thirty cigarettes a day of this mixture without inconvenience. The only change noticeable in the tobacco, which retains its aroma perfectly, is that it seems to acquire some resemblance to Oriental tobacco.

REDHEAD RECALLS TWENTY-FIVE YEARS IN WORK OF CHURCH

Interesting Reminiscences Feature Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Organist

The remarkable contrasts of twenty-five years in one congregation were discussed after morning service on unday by F. E. Redhead, whose twenty-fifth anniversary, as organist at the First Presbyterian Church had just been recognized. He was made the recipient of a valuable gold watch and chain; as well as of numerous words of congratulation and an official letter from the session.

The occasion was made especially notable by the fact that all of the musical features of the service (aside from te hymn) were Mr. Redhead's own compositions. The Prelude was a "Meditation" introducing phrases of numerous familiar hymns woven into dignified unity, with original variations and arpeggios. The opening sentence, "I was glad," and the two prayer responses showed due appreciation of the place for reverence and for thought stimulation in church music. The latter were "Gloria Patri" and "Let the Words of My Mouth," all of which were rendered by the carol choir; as was the anthem, "Te Deum"—The offertory solo, "The Cry From Macedonia," likewise an original conception, was sung by Miss Stella Trane. The postlude, "Zion Awake," sounded the appropriately stirring notes for a conclusion.

In a reminiscent mood, the organist recalled the many changes in the personnel of the congregation; how only one of the session and comparatively few of the early members remain, Rev. Guido Bossard was the minister at that time. He has had three successors: Rev. J. K. Fowler, D. D. Rev. D. C. Jones, D. D., and the present pastor, Claude R. Shaver. The quartette choir, which served with him on that first Sunday was composed of Mrs. P. S. Davidson, Miss Barbara Russell, now Mrs. R. G. Whelpley, the late W. G. Moss and Archibald Tull. A. S. Willoughby and F. L. Goddard were also associated from time to time.

"Made in La Crosse Week" was taken by the pastor as a suggestion for thoughts upon the religious relation between the home and the church. In conclusion, he said: "While we are emphasizing the place of our home factories in producing rubber shoes and plows, and crackers, and clothing, we may also bear in mind some other "factories' that are producing citizens, from the boys and girls growing up in our midst. Their lives are being moulded by school and home surroundings. If it is worth while to sympatize with local manufacturers in producing temporal commodities, may we not feel that we should consider also the vital responsibility of producing high standards of citizenship. Homes and schools should co-operate with the church in this important work."

"Religious education is being stressed in many quarters by church leaders, because they feel that the time is at hand for more intensive and efficient methods along this line. As an aid to our own city churches, the Federation committee has arranged for a union meeting in this church next Sunday evening to be addressed by Dr. N. E. Richardson, of the department of Religious Education of Northwestern University, Chicago.

"Perhaps it is not possible to have the same form of family worship in all homes, as our fore-fathers observed it. Yet the numerous aids to religious thought in books, papers, and Bible School helps, make it easy to have some specific recognition of religion, in regular and systematic form and at some time, in every home.

RED ARROW VETERANS ASKED TO REPORT TO STATE HEADQUARTERS

List of Addresses of Thirty-second Division Men is Reported Lost

MADISON, Wis.—Lost—the famous 32nd division. Such is the tale of woe that emanates from Red Arrow headquarters here and rivals the tale of the Lost Battalion.

In Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Washington, Oregon and in other states scattered over the union are upwards of 35,000 men who wear the Red Arrow on the shoulder of their uniform but just who they are and where they are now no one seems to know. This was discovered when Red Arrow officials decided to notify all the men of their division of the plans for the annual reunion of their division to be held here August 27, 28 and 29.

Some one at Detroit had the address of the men and officers. The list was supposed to have been sent to Camp Douglas, Wis., but it cannot be located and now the present addresses of the men are unknown.

An appeal was issued by the Red Arrow officials to all who ever served with this famous division which won its insignia by piercing the lines of its opponents, to send in their names and address as well as those of their buddies. This list will be made into a permanent record for the Red Arrow organization. A post card with your name and address and organization should be sent to Red Arrow, Adjutant General, Madison, Wisconsin, so that the division may be taken from the roll of the lost and missing.

ARREST DULUTH MAN FOR TAKING A DRINK IN A DINING CAR

Protection Against Search in the Home Not Extended to Railway Car

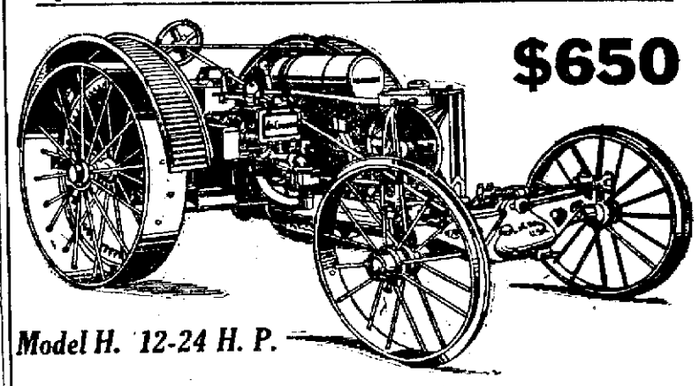

MADISON, Wis.—The sanctity of the home protected against search under the prohibition laws, unless with warrant, is not maintained in the dining car of a railroad, John Geistman, Duluth, learned last week when he was arrested by Carl Henning, deputy prohibition commissioner, as he was imbibing intoxicants during his noon meal on the diner. Geistman, arraigned in court, was found guilty of illegally transporting liquor.

The state prohibition officer happened to be on the train with Geistman when he noticed him taking a drink with his dinner. He placed him under arrest, and confiscated the intoxicants. A warrant has been sworn out for the arrest of the conductor of the train, according to the prohibition commissioner.

BAPTISTS LOOK TO HAYS TO CLEAN UP PICTURE INDUSRY

Committee Report Denounces Dancing and Gambling; Demands Law Enforcement

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—Denunciation of the modern dance and race track gambling and demand for strict censorship of moving pictures, enforcement of the prohibition laws and observance of Sunday marked the proposals submitted Monday to the Southern Baptist convention by its social service commission. Consideration of the report was one of the last matters before the convention.

The commission expressed hope that Will Hays, as head of the picture producers' organization, would "exercise what is supposed to be his great power for a thorough clean-up in the whole picture business." Withdrawal of "Fatty" Arbuckle pictures was approved and the commission declared "much more is needed."

"We hope Mr. Hays and the producers will keep up the work," continued the report. "Regardless of what they do we must demand the enactment of laws for strict censorship in each state. The morals of our young people must not continue to be corrupted by the public exhibition of the eternal triangle and other displays of indecency and lust."

The commission repeated "some improvements" in what it termed "the dance evil." But it declared in this connection that "we must not slacken our efforts."

swered their knock. Klein said he heard someone moving around inside and that a car, which they later found out belonged to Hammond was outside the place.

Charles Hammond testified that his wife, his brother and Ella Olson were present in their grocery store in South Seventh street when William Hauser came there to rent the Park avenue shack. Mrs. Charles Hammond and Ella Olson both corroborated this testimony.

William Gives Similar Testimony

William Hammond, when put on the witness stand also denied ever making moonshine in the shack and said that the first time he ever saw the cooker, cooler, oil stove, and samples of mash and finished product was this morning when they were brought into the courtroom.

Percy Eagon, testified that he delivered a piano box and hard coal stove which he got in town for a man he had never seen before to the shack. He gave the date as Oct. 19, and said he could recall the date because he had to make a daily report to his employer. Several days after that date, on a Sunday, he said he got two large boxes from a spot in the rear of Warninger's ice house and delivered them to the same place. Eagon said that man was neither Charles Hammond nor his brother William.

Herman Weiman, Twentieth and Farnam streets, who said the shack was located about two and a half blocks from his home, testified that he used to see a team going in the direction of the shack several times a week last fall and once saw a stranger leave the place and lock the door. He said he has known the Hammond brothers for a number of years and that that man who came from the shack was not either of them.

Wife's Testimony Overruled

The prosecution failed to get any testimony from Mrs. William Hammond introduced. William Hammond had testified that he never made any moonshine. District Attorney Reid called Mrs. William Hammond to the stand and asked her if she knew whether her husband had ever made any moonshine. Albert C. Wolfe, attorney for the brothers, objected to the question before Mrs. Hammond had a chance to answer. The objection was sustained and Mrs. Hammond left the stand.

and validity of the election contemplated in the Irish Free State, as well as the treaty itself. He hoped the conference would occur by the end of the present week.

Alluding to the accounts in the newspapers of the outrages by republicans in various parts of Ulster and the disorders in Belfast, Mr. Churchill said the British government had every confidence that the northern parliament would continue to grapple with the serious task of restoring order and maintaining it.

Troops to Ulster

Mr. Churchill said four additional battalions had landed in Ulster at an opportune moment Saturday, raising the strength of the imperial forces to 19 battalions. He said further reinforcements would be sent to any portion of Ulster that the northern government might consider necessary and that he was in consultation with the ministers of the northern government concerning the further issuances of arms and equipment to the police which the northern government was organizing.

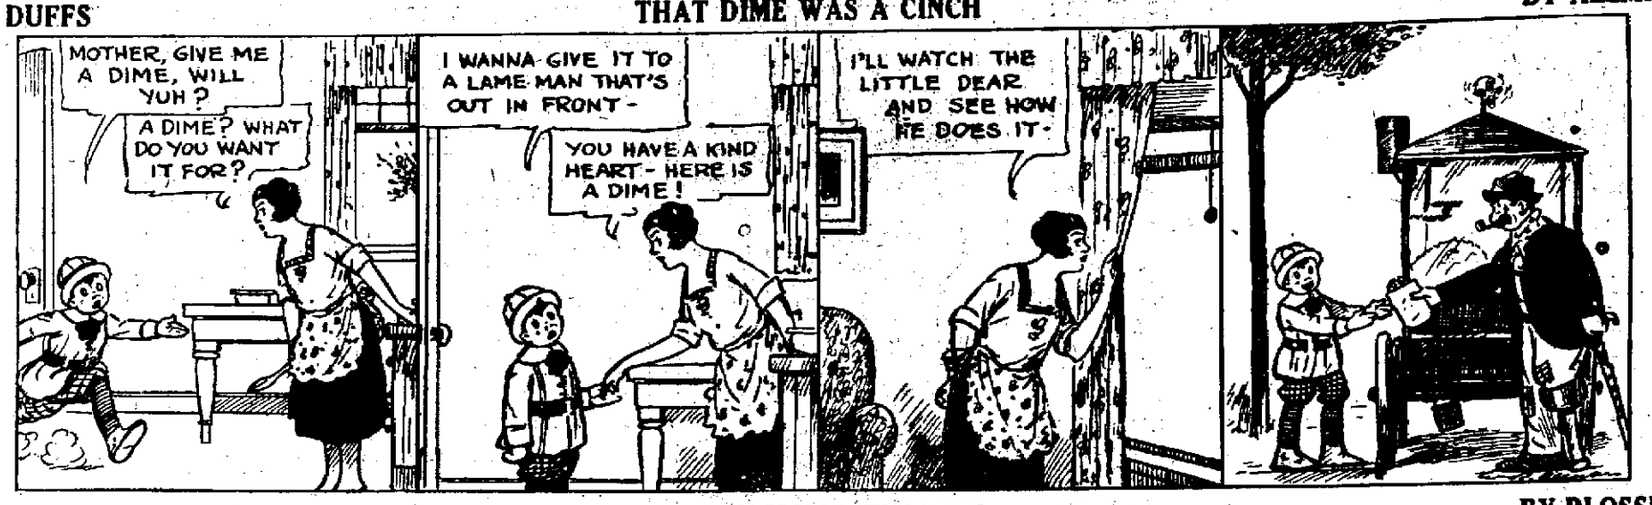

While every endeavor will be made, he added, to avoid unnecessary expense and sensational act, it is the intention of the British government to support the government of northern Ireland in every way necessary.

CROP CONDITIONS REPORTED IMPROVED

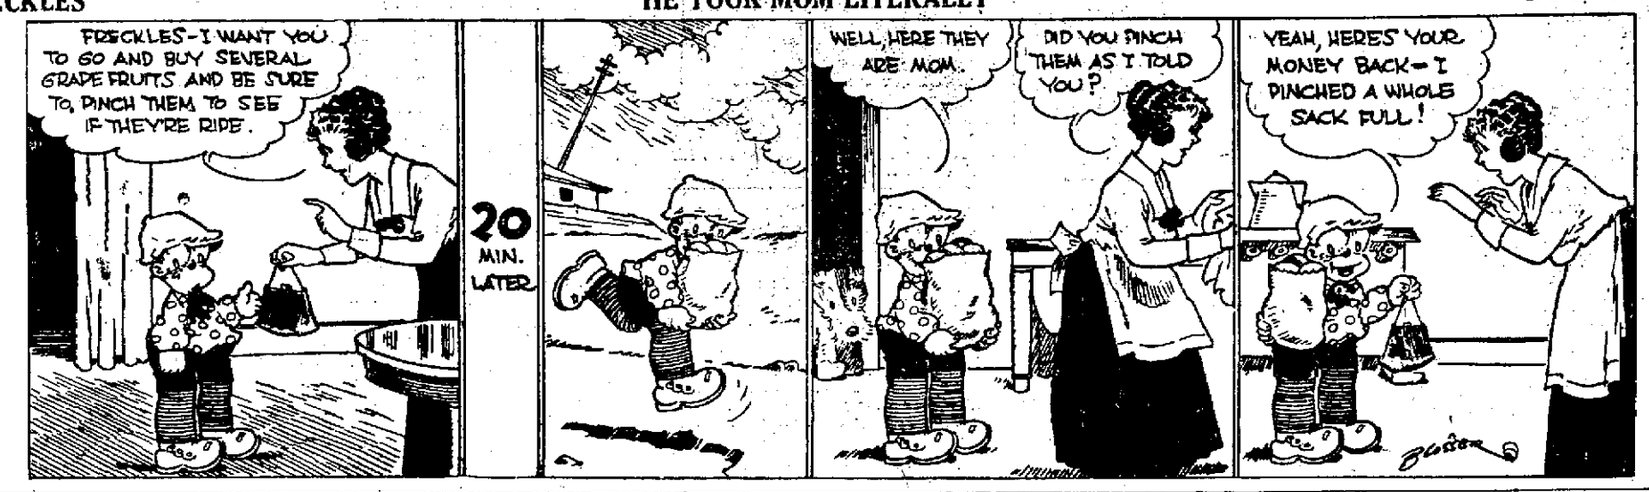

MADISON, Wis.—Crop and livestock conditions in Wisconsin improved greatly during the past week, the state crop reporting service reported today. Moderate temperatures with well distributed rainfall are said to have stimulated crop growth and offered little interruption to farm work.

Greenland produces most of the icebergs that float in the Atlantic.

HOOVER PLANS TO STOP COAL STRIKES AND FUEL FAMINE

Would Eliminate Seasonal Activity in Industry by Greater Storage

WASHINGTON.— Elimination of seasonal activity in the coal industry, by providing storage facilities for industries and districts of large consumption and for territory far removed from sources of production, may be urged as a result of studies now being made under the direction of Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

These investigations are in the hands of F. R. Wadleigh, mining engineer and fuel expert, whom Hoover has placed at the head of the department's coal division.

"Not until a safe and practical method of coal storage is established, will the economic factors involved be taken up," says Wadleigh.

"A questionnaire has been sent to some 200 of the largest users of coal, who burn probably 75 per cent of the industrial coal consumed in this country. Their individual experiments in storing coal and the economy and efficiency of the methods followed will furnish a starting point for our work."

Danger of Fire

"The problem involved in coal storage is not so much the loss in fuel value in storage as the danger of spontaneous combustion in large masses of coal piled above ground.

"Certain types of coal," Wadleigh says, "like lignite, for example, slack very rapidly when exposed to the air. Others, as Pocahontas and the better grades of bituminous, lose very little heating efficiency.

"Under-water storage as has been provided by the Duquesne Light Company of Pittsbugh; the Western Electric company; the Illinois Traction company; and a few other large users, is recognized as perhaps the best. The cost of this method, however, makes its general adoption difficult. The best method of storage available to the great majority of large users is the first question we have set ourselves to establish."

The theory that a system of storage would enable large stocks of coal to be placed in reserve during the customary season of slack demand, thus serving three purposes:

ONE. It would stabilize production.

TWO. It would offer year-round employment to miners.

THREE. It would enable railroads to transport long-haul coal under favorable conditions, freeing them to handle short-haul coal during winter.

Industries which might most advantageously build up coal stocks during periods of low domestic consumption include electric utilities, coal gas plants, by-product and steel plants, and railroads.

Freight Differential

All of these already have facilities for limited storage. With an economical and safe method established, they might be induced to multiply the amount of their storage stocks.

Secretary Hoover suggests that storage by large users, particularly the metallurgical industries, might be stimulated if a differential in freight rates on coal were allowed during the months of normally low demand.

It is unlikely any recommendations will be made by Hoover in time to affect the volume of coal stored this year.

What Hoover is demanding of the men conducting the study is not a hasty report, but a report on the basis of which the government, coal operators, miners and users of coal may be able to pull together to solve conditions, such as have contributed to the present coal strike.

Michigan girls say there is no spooning at the university. Then, they don't learn very much.

Russia plans to open the stock exchange; but we don't plan to take any stock in Russia.

STEAMER RAMMED BY U. S. SUBMARINE OFF LOS ANGELES HARBOR

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—The new steamer schooner Virginia Olson was rammed by the navy submarine D-7 in a dense fog off the Breakwater outside the harbor here Monday and racing at full speed with a hole in the bow, sank just after reaching the M. K. Wood dock in the harbor here.

The submarine proceeded on its way seaward after the collision and it was not known whether it was damaged.

GRAIN EXPORTS OFF

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Grain exports fell off by nearly half during the ten months ended with April as compared with the the corresponding period last year, according to trade reports issued Monday by the commerce department. For the ten months ended with April grain exports aggregated $560,000,000 compared with $950,000,000 during the same months of 1921 while for the month of April exports of grain aggregated $37,000,000 against $57,000,00 in April a year ago.

FISHERMAN DROWNED

IRON RIVER, Mich.—Mat Kortela was drowned in Lake Seventeen near Beechwood, early Sunday morning, while fishing with John Salo. Their boat capsized and Salo started swimming for shore, thinking Kortela would do likewise. When he reached shore he found that Kortela had drowned. The body has not been recovered.

MORE INDICTMENTS IN CHICAGO LABOR WAR ARE EXPECTED

New Evidence Found Linking Up "Big Three" With Terrorist Disorders

CHICAGO, Ill.—More indictments in Chicago's so-called labor war, will be forthcoming Monday, following the submission of additional evidence before the grand jury, State's Attorney Crowe announced.

Police said that further evidence had been secured which is said to link "Big Tim" Murphy, "Frenchy" Mader and "Con" Shea, labor leaders, with the slaying of two policemen more than a week ago, in connection with terrorists disorders which authorities attributed to labor trouble. These men, known as the "Big Three," were indicted in connection with the killings as the "higher-ups" who directed the work.

TRIAL OF ILLINOIS GOVERNOR GOES INTO FIFTH WEEK MONDAY

WAUKEGAN, Ill.—By the Associated Press.—The trial of Gov. Small, charged with conspiracy to embezzle state funds entered into its fifth week Monday with W. W. Sherman, assistant treasurer of Swift & Company on the stand.

Mr. Sherman, who was in the witness chair at adjournment last Friday continued his story of the financial transactions between his company and the Grant Park bank. The state alleges Governor Small, Lieutenant-Governor Fred E. Sterling and Vernon Curtis, president of the Grant Park bank, conspired to defraud the state of interest on state funds loaned to the "Big Five" packers through the bank.

KOLBO BROTHERS WIN DOUBLE-HEADER OVER CUBS AND LAX NEWS

The Kolbo Brothers Junior baseball nine figured in a double-header victory Sunday, trouncing the "Unsupported Cubs" 10 to 2 and the La Crosse News company, 16 to 3.

Kabat hurled for the Kolbos against the Cubs while Smidt pitched the club to victory over the News company.

TRAIN CREW RESCUES FAMILY IN BURNING HOME

JANESVILLE, Wis. — Freight train crew on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad rescued a family from a burning home close to the tracks at Avalon, a village fifteen miles from Janesville, early Monday morning. John Kus, a cripple, his wife and two children were sleeping soundly with the building so far gone as to fall in a heap a few minutes after the inmates were taken out by the crew.

KING OF BULGARIA FLEES THE COUNTRY

Kingdom in Civil War as Premier Proclaims a Republic

VIENNA. — Conflicting reports have reached here of a Bulgarian revolution. Despatches from Belgrade say that King Boris has fled to Varna and that Premier Stamboulisky, who represents the peasant and agrarians, has with his followers proclaimed a republic. A state of civil war, it is further reported, exists, and fifteen of Gen. Wrangel's officers have been expelled.

Russia Involved

Agram advices declare that a train from Sofia arrived at Belgrade Saturday afternoon and those aboard reported comparative quiet, Gen. Alexandrox having issued a counter proclamation at Sofia, calling upon the populace to remain loyal to the king.

Tchitcherin and Stamboulisky, according to an Agram paper, reached an agreement at Genoa, that if the Bulgarian premier would expel Wrangel's troops from Bulgaria, he would have the support of the entire Bulgarian communist element. A despatch from Sofia says that an attempt to carry out the expulsion of these troops precipitated the trouble.

TIRES ARE STOLEN FROM FORD GARAGE AT TREMPEALEAU

TREMPEALEAU, Wis.—The garage of C. S. Ford was broken into Saturday night and $150 worth of tires were stolen. Nothing else was taken. Entrance was gained by breaking the glass in the door.

Mrs. L. S. Sanders entertained at her home Saturday at a miscellaneous shower for Ruth Hutchins who will be a May bride. The home was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and the company delightfully entertained a part of the evening with readings given by Mrs. Sanders' sister, Miss Agnes Birdsell of Clarion Iowa. A delicious luncheon was served at 10:30 preceding "the shower" Miss Ruth received many beautiful and useful gifts. The guests were Mesdames, Odekirk, Bright, Trimm, Willis, Thomas, Grover, Elkins, Sparling, Hutchins, John Williamson, Nicholls, Kutchera, Utter, Merwin, Growt, B. Birdsell of Clarion, Iowa, A. Swan, W. Sparling of La Crosse the Misses Agnes Birdsell, Auline and Charlotte Nicholls, Ione Giles, Dorothy Harswell, Elva Jackson, Marjorie Wakefield, Retta Utter, Mae Thomas and Myrtle Grover, and Lucy Holmes.

INTER-STATES BEAT KNUTSON DAIRY TEAM SATURDAY AFTERNOON

The Inter-State Oil Co. baseball team defeated the Knutson Bros. Dairy's in ten close innings at Copeland Park Saturday afternoon, 6 to 5. Batteries: Inter-States, Simon and MacKenzie, Olson; Knutson Bros. Justman and Fransen. The Inter-States would like to arange for games with other teams whose players are from 14 to 17 years old. Games may be arranged by calling 1639-C.

GREEK HELD FOR MURDER

JANESVILLE, Wis.— A second degree murder charge has been lodged against Nick Pappas, 32, Beloit Greek, now in the Rock county jail, with the death here Sunday morning of John Flack, 32, from a bullet wound inflicted by Pappas at a Beloit restaurant March 29, while under the influence of liquor. Pappas was arrested four days after the shooting and held on a technical charge. The shooting was unintentional, Pappas firing three shots at the floor, one of which glanced and struck Flack, paralyzing him.

POPPY DAY PLANS ENLISTING MANY WORKERS IN CITY

American Legion, Sons of Veterans and Other Organizations are Co-operating

Plans for "Poppy Day" are going forward with a rush. A number of people have offered their services to sell poppies and otherwise help in the swing "over the top" next Saturday.

The latest good news of this kind is the action of the Sons of Veterans auxiliary in volunteering through the president, Miss Edith Jost, to give full support and active assistance in selling poppies. This is the organization which gave the American Legion its flag and the legion is mighty proud of the auxiliary for its loyalty and help to its brother organization.

All the patriotic organizations are invited to co-operate with the legion as the Service Star Legion and the Sons of Veterans auxiliary are doing for all such organizations can easily work together on account of their unity of purpose. Still more workers can be used and especially the immediate relatives of veterans of the world war are urged to join in this work. Telephone either of the joint chairmen, Mrs. R. W. Keyes, 285-R or L. E. Adkins, 666-C, and your services will be accepted.

A schedule for the workers will be published in the Tribune and Leader-Press. The poppy sales will start Friday in some of the factories, shops and large business houses and workers are to report promptly at 8 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce on next Saturday morning.

LEGION MEETING AT YEOMEN TONIGHT

The regular monthly meeting of the Roy L. Vingers post of the American Legion will be held at the Yeomen hall Monday evening, it was announced by the post commander Monday morning.

VESSEL WAS LYING TO IN FOG WHEN HIT

boats sent from Brest in response to the S. O. S. calls brought in only a score of dead.

Passengers said the ropes at the end of one of the life boats broke as it was being lowered after the collision, dumping all those in it into the sea. Then the ropes at the other end broke, the life boat falling on those who had counted upon it for escape.

Several of the Egypt's officers when they saw it was impossible to launch more of the boats, cut the ropes of those which had not been launched in the hope the craft would right themselves in the sea and be of some service to those in the water.

Dies to Save Woman

The ship's painter, named Genner, gave up his life to save a woman, survivors say. Genner, who left a wife and child at Dover, put on a life belt after the collision and was about to jump into the sea when he saw a woman running up and down the bridge begging for help. Genner put his life belt about her and said: "Madame, I do not know how to swim, but take it anyway."

Genner was drowned.

Dr. Bramner, the ship's doctor, and the second officer kept afloat with a plank while calling for aid that was long in coming. Dr. Bramner finally weakened and had to give up. "Good-bye," he said, "I'm done for," and he sank.

No More Bodies Found

Tugs and small war craft have been searching the scene of the wreck ever since the collision but no other bodies in addition to those picked up soon after had been found up to this afternoon.

The Egypt went down in 400 feet of water. She carried $300,000 in gold besides a consignment of mail for India. So far one mail pouch has been picked up but nothing else except the wreckage from the crash was found on the surface.

The ship's officers did not even save the vessel's papers.

It is not questioned by most of the survivors, however, that many of the 300 odd persons aboard were thrown into the sea or jumped from the sinking ship when they were unable to obtain places in the few life boats that were lowered.

U. S. Missionaries Missing

BOSTON, Mass.—Mrs. L. M. Sibley and Miss V. M. Boyer, the American women who are missing from the British steamship Egypt, sunk off the coast of France, were missionaries bound for India, who had been in this city recently. Mrs. Sibley, a member of the staff of the American board of Commissioners of Foreign Missions, has relatives in Toledo, Ohio.

Miss Boyer, who formerly made her home at Aspinwall, Pa., was going out as a teacher in a school for missionary children and others in South India.

Mrs. Sibley was a widow somewhat beyond middle years returning to her station in the city of Way. Miss Boyer, with no parents or relatives alive, was taking up work in the mission field after several years' absence from India. Miss Boyer was graduated recently from Brenau college at Gainesville, Ga. She had gone there after seven years' service with the American Lutheran mission at their Rajahdrumndy mission and after a year at the Koda school to which she was returning.

Miss Boyer Was Orphan

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Miss Virginia Boyer, reported missing after the liner Egypt went down off the coast of France last Saturday night, was a Lutheran missionary returning to India after a furlough spent in Pittsburgh. Miss Boyer was an orphan who had been reared in the Lutheran Orphans' home near here and later became a nurse in Passavant hospital. Her latest visit to this country was occasioned by ill health.

The HOME GARDEN

What is Home without a Garden?

GODETIA THRIVES IN POOR SOIL

There are very few plants for which poor soil can be advised. The brilliant annual known as the godetia is one of them. The godetia craves poor soil if it is to blossom freely and brilliantly so it is something of a boon to the gardener who has poor soil. In rich soil it develops a great many leaves, but is very shy of bloom.

The godetia is an old annual, but is by no means common in gardens. It is a member of the evening primrose family and the individual bloom is not lasting, but one follows another so quickly that for the greater part of the summer it furnishes a fine mass of color particularly if the seed pods are snipped off.

It has showy satiny flowers of good size ranging in reds, pinks and whites of various shades. There are numerous named variaties and there are also double forms. A dwarf strain makes an even more attractive bedding plant from the nature of its growth than the taller sorts. These grow only ten inches high where the more robust sorts attain a height of a foot and a half. The plant wants sunshine.

They should be planted early in boxes or frames and transplanted to their beds in May or as soon as the weather seems settled. They should be planted a foot apart.

For the brilliancy of its colors and the beautiful satiny tetxure of the bloom which is of good size it is strange that this annual has made its way so slowly although it has been in cultivation for many years. Probably it is due to the fact that it is usually given too rich fare and runs all to leaves.

If you have a poor piece of ground, try godetias and you will be rewarded. It does not want too much moisture, liking a fairly dry soil.

WALL ST. HAS BUSY DAY

Transactions in Early Trading Indicate One of Most Active Days of the Year

NEW YORK—Transactions on the stock exchange Monday were on a very large scale, foreshadowing one of the most active days of the year. Rumors of a new deal involving Midvale and Republic, accompanied the early rise of those stocks. Other steels moved unevenly, Crucible strengthening while United States Steel eased. The list shower temporary irregularity on offerings of Mexican Petroleum and several of domestic oils, and selling of rails, notably New Haven and the coalers. Before noon, however, prices rose again under lead of Junior Rails, motors and equipments. Erie, Studebaker, American Car, Westinghouse Electric and American and Lima Locomotives were especially strong. Call money opened at 3½ per cent despite last week's heavy loss of excess reserves.

Domestic and foreign advices over the week-end evidently were of a character to make traders cautious at the opening of the stock market, although the trend of prices was higher. Within the first fifteen minutes gains of one to three points were scored by several of the independent steels, notably Midvale and Republic Iron and Steel common and preferred. Rails also moved upward under lead of Atchison, Chicago and Northwestern, Great Northern and Missouri Pacific preferred. Tobaccos were strongest of the specialties, United Cigar Stores rising four points. Domestic Oils were better by fractions to one point, but the European group eased. Mail order shares were higher on favorable trade reports.

Call money's rise to 5 per cent in the final hour had little adverse effect upon representative rails and industrials but oils and specialties yielded. The close was irregular. Sales 1,500,000 shares.

WHEAT OPENS HIGHER

Upturn Comes on Speculative Buying But Demand Lacks Volume and Reaction Follows

CHICAGO, Ill.—Despite big receipts of wheat here Monday, 585 carloads, and notwithstanding deliveries of 385,000 bushels on May contracts, the wheat market averaged a little higher in price during the early tradings. The upturn in quotations resulted from speculative buying, based on opinions that the market had become oversold. Demand, however, lacked volume. The opening which varied from ⅜c decline to ⅝c advance with May $1.36 and July $1.23⅛ to ⅝ was followed by moderate, general gains and then something of a reaction.

Liquidating sales on the part of holders had a pronounced bearish effect later, especially on the May delivery. The finish though was unsettled at 2¼c net decline to ⅞c net decline with May $1.33½ and July $1.23⅝ to ¾.

Corn reflected action of wheat. After opening ¼c off to ⅛c advance, July 64⅛ to ¼c the market hardened a little all around.

Commission houses that recently have been bullish were free sellers when the wheat market underwent a setback. The close was nervous at ⅛c to ⅜c net decline, July 64 to ¼c.

Oats started ¼c to ⅜c lower July 39 to ⅛c and later rallied a trifle.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened provisions.

MISS ELSIE GOBEL WINS FIRST PRIZE IN LOCAL CONTEST

Takes Head Trophy Offered Girls in Made-in-La Crosse Week Essay Contest

Miss Elsie Gobel, a student in the high school, is the winner of the first girls' prize in the essay contest featuring Made-in-La Crosse Week, on "Why Buy La Crosse Products?" Following is the essay which won for Miss Gobel the first prize, and three pair of silk hose offered by the E. R. Barron company:

Why Buy La Crosse Products?

Elsie Gobel.

From time immemorable, and in all history there has been, ever present, a human tendency to undervalue home talents, and home products. In ancient Greece, Homer, that great poet, blindly begged his way through seven cities who, after his death, all claimed to be his birthplace. But, why should this be so? Why should a product be required to gain renown in some other place before it is recognized in its own city? It is entirely wrong and improper that this should happen.

By preferring outside manufactures to home products, has it never occurred to you that we give ourselves a certificate of failure, freely acknowledging the superiority or better salesmanship of the outsider? If we buy home products we are only supporting ourselves. We are encouraging the manufacturer and enabling him to turn out a better article, thus giving full value for money. We also give home capital confidence to venture out, knowing that it has a good reserve behind it. The manufacturer is certain of the security of his outlay as he knows that the citizens will support him.

It is the La Crosse manufacturers who are giving regular employment to our citizens, paying them regular wages, and providing them with suitable working conditions. It is these men who are making possible the happy homes of our community and the greater the number of these kind of homes, the less chance there is for anarchist, bolshevist, and radical, of finding listeners and stirring up unrest. The agitator finds no room, and has no listeners among a well-paid, well-housed, and well-fed working class. The retailers also feel the benefit because they receive prompt payment and therefore have less losses. The farmers in the surrounding neighborhood, also find a good and ready market for all their products. Nice homes can be built, as the builders feel more secure, knowing that a well-paid working class want more comfortable homes. The city government is also able to reap innumerable benefits by having a higher tax bill. This enables it to build more schools, parks, roads and other public utilities, educating and beautifying the city. It therefore behooves each individual citizen to support these industries, buy their products, and keep the money at home, thereby increasing the wealth of our community.

It is a well-known fact that farming makes the surrounding country fairly well off; but it is the smoking factory chimneys, the whirling of the machinery, and the stream of workers which pass through the factory doors, which bring wealth and luxury to a city.

The other side, besides the financial part, to this question is, the community spirit or home patriotism. They say that nothing made the individual German more proud than the three words, "Made in Germany." "Made in La Crosse," how that must sound to the man or woman away from home, only someone who has experienced it can understand. How the heart swells to hear the home city praised for the good articles which come from it! To listen to such remarks as "La Crosse. Why the best shoes are made there!" or "We always buy our hats in La Crosse!" sound like music in the ears! But a word of reproach to our leaders of society and fashion, and civic affairs. It is not very flattering or encouraging to pick up the newspaper and read that a leading belle has purchased her wedding dress in Chicago, or that the men cannot find a suitable tailor and so they have to buy out of town. While I acknowledge that some articles must be shipped in there is no necessity for buying out of town what we can produce ourselves.

As true and loyal citizens of La Crosse, the duty to ourselves, to our neighbors, and fellow-workers, to the man who ventures all, to our beautiful and beloved city demands that we support home products, "Made in La Crosse," and so "Keep the home fires burning."

CHURCH BELL GIVEN FRENCH VILLAGE IN MEMORY OF SEEGER

LADRICOURT-SOUS-COUCY—By the Associated Press—Impressive ceremonies marked the dedication here Sunday of the new church bell given to this village in honor of the American soldier-poet, Alan Seeger, by the Poetic Society of America through the American committee for devastated France.

The ceremonies concluded with the town's 200 inhabitants passing by the bell, each tapping it with the clapper.

The bell is one of thirty similar tokens given to as many villages by the American committee to replace those taken by the Germans, in memory of prominent soldiers who fell near the villages so honored.

Sunday's ceremonies were attended by a large group of Americans, including the parents of the dead poet.

Images were introduced into various churches about 300 A. D.

Summary—Three base hit—Beranek. Two base hit—Meyer. Struck out—By Jaeger, 7; by Schultz, 7. Base on balls—Off Jaeger, 1; off Schultz, 2.

"YOU can't beat an outfit when they play like that," was the unanimous verdict of the crowded stands as they singled out after watching an excellent exhibition of the national pastime at Copeland park Sunday afternoon in which the Nelson Clothing company figured in the third straight win, this time over Caledonia, 2 to 0.

Good Game for Fans

From the fans' point of view the game lacked nothing that would contribute to excitement and interest and tense circumstances which repeatedly brought them to their feet. They saw Schultz and Jaeger pitted against each other in a nip and tuck battle; they saw "Cully" cover three bases in short time after a smashing ground ball to left center which broke the visitors' air-tight defense and made the opening for the only two runs of the game; and they saw Klandrud make a sensational one-handed stab of P. Wheaton's drive into left field in the fourth inning.

Schultz continued in his usual effective style distributing four hits to the visitors in such order that the locals were never in serious danger. Three of the five hits off Jaeger in the third stood the Nelsons the two scores.

In their final chance at bat in the eighth inning the locals made a desperate attempt to add figures to their score sheet but each time were nipped at the plate. Johnson had reached first on Meyer's error and went second. Beranek nicked his second hit into right as Johnson tore around third but the throw in beat him to the plate. Smith hit and went to third on errors and again Beranek's flying attempt to reach home was unsuccessful.

Score in Third

The locals' two runs in the third inning came after two were out. Johnson was given a pass. He stole second. Then came Beranek's three-base drive which sent Johnson over the plate. Smith followed with a single through second and before the pellet was recovered Beranek had chalked up another tally. Schaefer added another in the hit column but the rally was over when Haus took Stoneman's pop fly. Stoneman sustained an injured finger on a tick off Jaeger's bat in the sixth innnig. He continued with a wrapped finger through the game.

Merlo went in as pinch hitter in the ninth after Haus had clouted a single. He got a single but Haus was out at third.

DAHL'S FORDS WIN OVER REIMANS, 17-7 SUNDAY MORNING

Dahl's Fords baseball team added another victory to its credit when they defeated the Remian team at Copeland park Sunday morning, 17 to 7.

Wolf, who pitched for the Montague aggregation, pitched for the Reimans, but was taken out of the box in the fifth inning when five runs were scored.

Dahl's Fords started the game with Kreismer, star hurler. Having an off-day, "Cappie" Groth went in the second inning and pitched a wonderful game.

The Reimans having run six scores in the first inning were held to one run the rest of the game by the wonderful pitching and good team work of the Fords.

The Fords will go to Houston next Sunday to play some team from near there. Score:

WISCONSIN EASILY DEFEATS IOWA AT CAMP RANDALL ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON, 10-1

BY BOB DUNN

For those who saw Wisconsin defeat Iowa university, 10 to 1, at Camp Randall on Saturday afternoon in a miserable exhibition of ball, it is difficult to understand how the same team defeated the Badgers last week on their own field, 8 to 6, and thereby put the final crimp in the championship aspirations of Coach Lowman's outfit.

The game on Saturday was Wisconsin's all the way. Six Iowa errors, 5 contributed by the shortstop and second basemen, played a large part in the Badger scores of the first part of the game. The greatest swatfest of the afternoon occurred in the seventh when three more runs were piled up by the Cardinal.

Paddock Effective

Captain Paddock had a good day on the mound, allowing his opponents but five scattered hits. The only run garnered by the visitors came when a hit and errors filled the bases with none out. Paddock walked Shimek, forcing in the only run scored by Iowa, and then retired the next three batters in easy fashion.

Rowdy Elliott, as usual, was Wisconsin's star at the bat, getting three hits in four trips to the plate. One was a double. Caesar, Jack Williams and Barry each connected for two and both of Barry's were doubles. George Ruediger also got a successful two bagger.

Shimek, Iowa second baseman and also Hawkeye basket star, was put off the diamond in the sixth frame following a dispute with Umpire Rae. During the five innings he played, Shimek made three of the visitors' six errors.

Two Home Games Left

Two home games remain on the Badger schedule, those with Northwestern and Chicago. All Madison business men's organizations have been invited to the Chicago game on June 2 as the guests of the athletic department of the university.

The most important of last Saturday's Big Ten contests was that between Michigan and Illinois at Urbana. The 7 to 3 victory of the Suckers will make Michigan work hard during her remaining games if she is to secure a final berth at the top of the column. The Wolverines still have to meet Wisconsin at Ann Arbor.

CINCINNATI, O.—Barnes was hit hard in the first and sixth innings and Cincinnati won the first game of the series from New York by a score of 5 to 1. Donohue kept the hits well scattered and was given sensational support. The Giant's only run resulted from Kelly's triple and a passed ball. Score:

New York ---------000 010 000—1
Cincinnati ---------200 003 00*—5

Batteries—Barnes, Shea and Smith; Donohue and Hargrave.

Robins 8; Cubs, 4

CHICAGO.—Brooklyn hit Aldridge hard on Sunday, driving him out of the box in the seventh inning and easily defeated Chicago, 8 to 4. Ruether was wild, but managed to steady himself in the pinches. All the visitors hit safely, the attack being led by T. Griffith, who had a perfect average with four hits and a sacrifice in five times up. Score:

Brooklyn ----------110 100 500—8
Chicago -----------101 000 200—4

Batteries—Ruether and Miller; Aldridge, Osborne, Freeman and O'Farrell.

Braves, 4; Cards, 3

ST. LOUIS.—A pitchers' battle between Marquard of Boston and Sherdel of the Cardinals went to the former in the first game of the series on Sunday, 4 to 3. Southworth's circuit slam in the eighth with a man on base gave the Braves a lead. The Cardinals tied in their half, only to be nosed out in the last frame. Score:

Boston ------------001 000 021—4
St. Louis ----------001 000 110—3

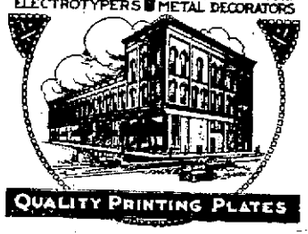

Batteries—Marquard and O'Neil; Sherdel and Ainsmith.

COMMENDS BECK FOR HIS SUPPORT OF LEGISLATION

Benjamin Marsh, managing director of the Farmers' National council, has written Congressman J. D. Beck of Viroqua a letter commending for introducing his bill, H. R. 10798, "authorizing the interstate commerce commission to approve or disapprove contracts involving the construction or repair of locomotive engines, cars and maintenance work, such as building, maintaining and repairing tracks, roadbeds, bridges, buildings, coal docks and water stations owned and operated by common carriers by railroads engaged in interstate commerce."

The writer asserts: "I also appreciate very much your warm endorsement of the La Follette-Frear bill to levy a rapidly progressive tax upon large inheritances with the rate of 50 per cent on all fortunes in excess of $30,000,000."

WHEN YOU SCORE A BALL GAME

REMEMBER—

The scoring of a base hit often resolves itself into purely a question if judgment. What one scorer may regard as a ball too hard to handle and score a hit, may be considered an error by some other scorer. This question of judgment usually comes up on fast and slow hit balls.

QUESTIONS THEY ASK

Answers to your fishing troubles write to Dixie, care of Sporting Editor. Enclose stamped envelope for quick reply.

Question—How do you get helgramite for bait, and are they good bait for bass? K. M. D. Answer—The helgramite is a fine bait for bass. You will find them under stones in streams. Hold a minnow net below the stone, turn the stone over, and the current will wash the helgramite into the net. They double up into a ball, and the current carries them downstream when dislodged from the under side of stones. To hook them start the hook under the hard shell near the head and out the other end.

Question—Will you kindly give a formula for preserving minnows?—F. J. D. Answer—For preserving minnows make a solution of a half fluid ounce of formaldehyde to a pint of water. Put them in an airtight jar.

Question—To settle a dispute can you tell me the surest way to identify the pickerel, pike and muskie?—G. S. Answer—By comparison you will find the pickerel has both cheeks and gill covers entirely scaled; the pike has scales on the cheeks and upper half only of the gill covers, while the muskie has only the upper half of the cheeks and gill covers scaled. Many true pike are called pickerel.

Question—What length and width canoe would you advise for a three weeks' trip in Canadian waters, with rapids in rivers and some lakes and quite a few portages?—C. M. S. Answer—I suggest a straight-keeled canoe with a good tumble-home in which the width and flat floor are carried well into the bow and stern. This increases carrying capacity and buoyancy, adding to the seaworthiness for the crossing of lakes. Get a 16-footer 13 to 14 inches deep and 30 to 36 inches wide, weight about 70 pounds.

Question—Last season I caught a 14-inch black bass, had no scales. What was the weight?—A. V. Answer—According to schedule the bass should have weighed three pounds.

Question—My split bamboo rod has come apart from being wet, what is a good glue to use and how shall I go about regluing it?—C. W. B. Answer—A good glue to use is ordinary Le Pages, or, better still, take the white flake glue used by pattern-makers and heat it yourself. Clean the bamboo strips of all old glue. Use a piece of broken glass, then reglue the rod tying it together until it dries. Rewind with silk as you wish and varnish, using good varnish and letting it dry between coats. Before varnishing you will of course scrape the outer side of the rod.

JACK BRITTON TO DEFEND TITLE IN GO WITH LEONARD

NEW YORK.—Jack Britton, welterweight boxing champion, will be ready to defend his title in a match with Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, early in June, according to word received by Tex Rickard from Dan Morgan, Britton's manager. Rickard is understood to have made tentative plans, as a result to stage the contest on June 16 to 20, in or near New York.

SPORT BRIEFS

BRUSSELS. — Suzanne Lenglen successfully defended her title to the International Hard Court Tennis championship by defeating Elizabeth Ryan of California in straight sets.

CHICAGO. — Jock Hutchinson, British open golf champion announced he would defend his title this year.

Score by innings:
Montagues .....320 102 001—9
Bangor .....010 000 000—1

Summary—Two base hits—Franzini, J. Weigent, Marpenschein. Struck out—By Pate, 9; by Gunderson, 8. Base on balls—Off Pate 5; off Gunderson, 1. Stolen bases—Temp, Safford, Jonrsud, 2. Double play Moore to C. Weigent to Safford.

WITH Gunderson effective throughout the game the Montague baseball club annexed its first victory of the season Sunday afternoon by handing out a solid walloping to Bangor, 9 to 1.

Back of Gunderson in the game yesterday was a flock of teammates, who, with the exception of Bobby Moore, were unanimous in contributing to the hit column for a total of twelve. Pate's ineffectiveness more especially in the first two innings netted five counts right off the go for the locals. They added one each in the fourth and ninth and two in the sixth. Gunderson let the home club down with four scattered bingles in the entire session.

Franzini, making his first appearance with the Montagues Sunday, lived up to his old-time form both behind the bat and with the stick. He collected a two bagger and a single to be creditetd with two hits along with Gunderson, Jonsrud and Johnny Weigent.

Next week the locals will attempt to even up games with the Trempealeau aggregation at Copeland park.

YANKS BEAT BROWNS IN TEN INNING GAME

Ward's Single, Jacobson's Fumble, Ruth's Out Fielder's Choice Score Win

NEW YORK.—New York retained the leadership in the American league race by defeating St. Louis in a ten-inning game on Sunday, 6 to 5. The Yankees scored the winning run on Ward's single, Jacobson's fumble, Ruth's infield out and a fielder's choice by DeVormer, batting for Baker. Ward's fielding featured. Score:

St. Louis ---------200 002 100 0—5
New York --------011 110 100 1—6

Batteries: Danis, Bayne and Severeid; Hoyt and Schang.

Griffs, 8; White Sox, 1

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Washington defeated Chicago on Sunday in easy fashion, 8 to 1, the locals knocking Courtney from the box in two innings and bunching hits repeatedly off Hodge, his successor. Zachary allowed but five scattered hits. The score:

Chicago - ---------100 000 000—1
Washington -------140 100 200*—8

Batteries: Hodge and Schalk; Zachary and Gharrity.

RUTH PUTS RED ABOVE GREEN IN BASEBALL BATS

NEW YORK.—Babe Ruth has put the red above green. He went to bat Sunday in the first inning of the game with the St. Louis Browns with a shiny green bat. He popped flies, little puny noes, in his tries in the first and third.

In the fifth he walked up and the green was gone—or most of it. The business end of the bludgeon had been scraped until an orange, tinted red showed. With that he pasted his first hit of the year and later helped in the making of the tying and the winning runs.

SPECTACULAR MEET LOST BY WISCONSIN TO GOPHERS, 68-67

Broad Jump Event Determines Winner of Track Meet Saturday

(By BOB DUNN.)

Wisconsin lost a spectacular track meet to Minnesota at Minneapolis on Saturday, losing out by a single point. The meet went to the Gophers, 68 to 67 because John Farley jumped a few inches farther than Johnson of Wisconsin to take second place in the broad jump which determined the final outcome of the meet. Guy Sundt won first in the deciding event.

The competition was close all the way and the meet reported to be one of the most exciting ever seen at the northern institution. Three new records were set up for the Gopher institution.
